

WELCOME TO MQFF 2018

Australia's biggest queer film festival returns to Melbourne to celebrate its 28th year with a blockbuster program set to delight, surprise and challenge audiences.

Film buffs can take their pick from some of the best queer cinema from across the country and around the world, including more than 120 feature films, short films and documentaries. Festival-goers can also join the conversation at a range of enthralling panel and Q&A sessions.

As a long term principal partner, the City of Melbourne is proud to support the festival and our queer filmmaking community. So peruse the program, grab the popcorn and get ready as we raise the curtain on one of our city's premiere cultural events.

The stage is set for another bumper year; congratulations to the Melbourne Queer Film Festival team!

Arron Wood

Deputy Lord Mayor of Melbourne

Maxwell Gratton
Executive Director

For nearly three decades the Melbourne Queer Film Festival (MQFF) has engaged the community with a curated program of the best LGBTIQ content that aims to educate, entertain and celebrate diversity. I am honored to be leading my first Festival as Executive Director.

Having crossed to the Entertainment and Arts industry from Sport, where I was most recently the Chief Executive Officer of Football Federation Victoria, what has been most evident is the affection the community has for MQFF. In that light, I will do my best to lead a Festival that is innovative and relevant whilst underpinning the contribution of those before me that has made MQFF so great.

This year we present a program of over 120 features and shorts, panels, questions and answer sessions, workshops, parties and many other ways to celebrate LGBTIQ culture through film and the moving image.

A special thanks goes to all of those who have made the Festival possible. From the Board of Directors, led by Scott Herron and Cathy Anderson, to our generous sponsors, partners, donors and Sweethearts, volunteers, MQFF Members, you the audience, and everyone and anyone who has contributed. It is all greatly appreciated.

I trust that you will have a fabulous time as we strive to educate, entertain and celebrate diversity.

Spiro Economopoulos
Program Manager

2017 was an incredible year for queer cinema. It was bookended with two films that are sure to be future classics, Moonlight and Call Me By Your Name.

In between that we saw theatrical releases of God's Own Country, Battle of the Sexes, Professor Marston and the Wonder Woman, Handsome Devil (MQFF 2017) and Tom of Finland.

What we are seeing isn't so much the mainstreaming of queer cinema but the very exciting prospect that more diverse queer stories are getting told and it's having a very exciting trickle down effect that is reflected in MQFF's bountiful 2018 program.

We continue to showcase and celebrate the best in LGBTIQ cinema from around the world and it's really heartening to be featuring two Australian feature debuts with So Long and The Five Provocations. These will be playing alongside headliners such as My Days of Mercy, BPM (Beats Per Minute), Signature Move, After Louie, The Feels and Love, Simon (our centrepiece presentation), just to name a few.

But don't take my word for it: dive in and explore, you'll be queerer for it.

FREAK SHOW

Melbourne Premiere

'Heir to the John Hughes teen-outsider fantasy legacy, dressed up in glitter drag.'
– Hollywood Reporter

Based on the award winning cult novel by legendary club kid James St. James (who also wrote Party Monster) Freak Show is a wonderfully queer fish out of water comedy that is part Clueless and all fabulous. Born to be fierce and fashion forward, young Billy (played by the excellent Alex Lawther, (Departure MQFF 2016) is sent off to stay with his well-to-do dad after his party loving mother (Bette Midler at her boozy best) checks in for a stint in rehab. His flamboyant style doesn't go down too well at his new school and he quickly makes an enemy out of the self-appointed mean girl (Abigail Breslin) when he decides to go up against her for the crown of homecoming queen. Featuring memorable cameos from Laverne Cox and John McEnroe, this defiant coming of age tale is a rally cry for letting your 'freak flag' fly.

Brooklyn singer-songwriter Becks (Tony award winner Lena Hall) is broke and broken hearted. After moving her entire life to LA to be with her girlfriend, she devastatingly discovers that she has been replaced by someone younger and hotter. Following this crushing breakup, she moves back home to the Midwest to live with her mother (Christine Lahti). While figuring what to do with her life and singing for tips at her ex-boyfriend's local bar, she forms an unexpected connection with restless housewife Elyse (Mena Suvari), who is unfortunately married to Becks' high school tormenter. The film is inspired by events in the life of singer Alyssa Robbins, who collaborated on the film's score and is elevated by the charismatic Hall whose vulnerability, wryness and immense likability make this an enjoyable night out.

CENTREPIECE PRESENTATION

LOVE, SIMON

Everyone deserves a great love story. But for seventeen-year old Simon Spier it's a little more complicated: he's yet to tell his family or friends he's gay and he doesn't actually know the identity of the anonymous classmate he's fallen for online. Resolving both issues proves hilarious, terrifying and life-changing. Directed by Greg Berlanti (TV's Dawson's Creek, Brothers & Sisters), written by Isaac Aptaker & Elizabeth Berger (TV's This is Us), and based on Becky Albertalli's acclaimed novel, Love, Simon is a funny and heartfelt coming-of-age story about the thrilling ride of finding yourself and falling in love.

THE FIVE PROVOCATIONS

World Premiere

The lives of four very different people intertwine in this daring, original Australian ensemble drama. Marlena is secretly dealing with the loss of her married lover, Rosie. Rosie’s husband Paul is also going through his own grief.

Meanwhile Marlena takes on a housemate, the timid and a little bit aimless, Bridget. Handyman Clinton grapples with parenting a teenage daughter and his own developing gender identity. Throughout the film these people will fall apart, but also come together and change each other’s lives.

SO LONG

World Premiere

Lesbian mumblecore drama So Long follows two women as they grapple with their post-breakup lives. Kicking off at the point of relationship meltdown, we follow 20-somethings Emily (Kimberley Lisle) and Ray (Eva Seymour) as they traverse the uncomfortable world of the newly single. From weird new housemates to a disastrous one-night stand, terrible jobs and creepier dudes, filmmakers Caitlin Farrugia and Michael Jones utilise naturalism and improvisation to explore a relatable slice of life. Shot in Melbourne, this study of fresh singledom captures the grinding pain and quiet triumph of rediscovering who you are outside of a relationship.

THE FEELS

In this racy, hilarious ensemble comedy, a group of friends gather for a weekend away to celebrate the impending wedding of Andy and Lu. On the first drunken night the ecstasy pills come out and Lu confesses that she's never had an orgasm, much to Andy's dismay. As the weekend goes on Lu's admission isn't the only thing that transpires, as marriages unravel and sexual tensions boil over.

Interspersed amongst all the mayhem are direct-to-camera addresses from the cast recounting their first orgasm (the story from Ever Mainard, who plays Helen in the film, is worth the price of admission alone). Thanks to a wonderful cast who seamlessly swing from wild comedy to pointed pathos, The Feels is a delight from start to finish.

AL BERTO

Melbourne Premiere

The mysterious and handsome poet Al Berto arrives at the sleepy fishing village of Sine in Portugal at the height of the decadent disco era of the 1970's. Suffice to say, Sine hasn't caught up but Al Berto is about to change all that.

Very quickly he sets up house in a ramshackle mansion with a crew of young bohemians and misfits, while falling for the aspiring writer

João. But changing the world comes with a cost and Al Berto and his merry crew of outcasts soon find themselves clashing with the conservative elements of the town. Brimming with energy, passion and a revolutionary spirit (not to mention disco), Al Berto is a much needed rallying call to arms.

Lainey Allen is a soap opera star at the height of her career, with a devoted partner and a luxurious Hollywood lifestyle. When Lainey begins to forget her lines, a shock diagnosis of early onset Alzheimer's is revealed and Lainey is forced into early retirement. If this is sounding like the plot of a, well, daytime soap opera you'll find this is one of the films many surprises. This, however, doesn't detract from the compassion and sincerity that A Million Happy Nows brings to its subject matter and is wonderfully acted by the two leads who have often portrayed on screen couples in well known soaps such as The Guiding Light.

SATURDAY CHURCH

Melbourne Premiere

'Moonlight meets La La Land.' – Variety

Ulysses is a gender non-conforming New York teen who is grieving the loss of their father. Ostracised at school, Ulysses is taken in by a group of trans youth and is introduced to the Saturday Church, a drop-in centre for at-risk queer teens.

The safe house is run by the street smart Joan (played by the irreplaceable Kate Bornstein) and also hosts regular voguing dance-offs. Drawn to this vibrant ballroom scene, Ulysses begins to find a voice and even romance. Drawing from a diverse cast of trans and gender non-conforming teens who themselves attend the program the film is based on, Saturday Church seamlessly blends musical numbers and fantasy alongside the harsh realities this group of young people face every day. Ultimately, this is an inspiring and hopeful cinematic experience.

A MOMENT IN THE REEDS

'One of the most moving gay romance stories of recent years...'
– FilmInquiry.com

Mikko Makela's stunning romantic drama explores the relationship between two men, set against an idyllic Finnish summer. Whilst visiting his estranged father, Leevi meets Tareq, a handsome Syrian immigrant employed to restore the family lake house. Leevi's father departs for the city, leaving the two men alone in the beautiful remote countryside and enabling them to slowly forge a deep connection. Far removed from their everyday lives, the only immediate threat to the men's relationship is the eventual return of Leevi's father. But there's also Tareq's complex relationship with his family back in Syria. Makela sensitively explores the perspectives of both men, who long for some human connection, acceptance and a place to call home. With marginalised characters at the forefront of the story, Makela's film is a very welcome and refreshingly frank portrait of contemporary Finnish society.

Landing in the Soho district broke and jobless, he innocently falls in with a group of rent boys who educate him in the ways of male escorting. Jim quickly becomes the star attraction for many of Soho's top clientele and artists, who find his ethereal beauty a perfect canvas on which to project their fantasies.

With more than a passing nod to Fassbinder's Querelle and the work of Derek Jarman, Postcards from London is a hyper-stylised, fever dream celebrating the symbiotic bond between the artist and their muse.

THE MISANDRISTS

Melbourne Premiere

'Cinema's doyenne of unapologetic gay sex wraps this twisted fantasy in such a pretty package, anyone who ever dreamed of joining a dissident lesbian cult has no choice but to accept.' – Indiewire

Cult queer director Bruce La Bruce (Gerontophilia, MQFF 2014) puts his own stamp on The Beguiled, turning it up a notch - of course. Set in an alternate history in Ger(wo)many in 1999, two young women, Hilde and Isolde, come across a wounded revolutionary who is running from the police and is seeking sanctuary. They reluctantly take him in despite the fact they are part of a feminist terrorist cell plotting on toppling the patriarchy. Run by the austere Big Mother (a hilarious turn by Susanne Sachsse), the cult is encouraged to make love frequently and survive financially by making pornography. Featuring an array of diverse and fierce women, The Misandrists is a deliriously entertaining radical feminist manifesto. Stay for the rousing end credits that feature a collage of famous feminists through the ages.

Steve Coogan and Paul Rudd star as Erasmus and Paul, two long term lovers whose bickering is as epic as their fabulous parties. When the grandson Erasmus never knew he had shows up at their doorstep one night the pair are plunged unpreparedly into parenthood. This hilarious comedy is a bawdy and surprisingly touching look at the many shapes and forms that families come in. Coogan and Rudd are wonderful as two men trying to figure out how to fit a child into their already complicated and full life. Despite Ideal Home's outrageous take on family values, its tribute to real life LGBTIQ families during the closing credits is genuinely heartwarming.

NOBODY'S WATCHING

Melbourne Premiere

'Sensitive writing, a sharp understanding of milieu and a superb performance by Guillermo Pfening expertly capture the struggles of an Argentine actor trying to find his place in New York.' – Variety

Gorgeous Nico (Guillermo Pfening - Best Actor, Tribeca 2017), is a 30-something actor who leaves a successful TV soap career in Argentina after a romantic breakup with his married producer. He pursues his dream of a film career in New York, but soon finds himself playing alternative roles of babysitter, bartender and shoplifter as an illegal immigrant on the lowest rung of the American economic ladder. Surprise visits from his former co-star and ex-lover force him to face the real reasons he left Argentina, and the reality of his dreams. Director Julia Solomonoff's moving feature presents a portrait of immigrant solitude imbued with warmth and humour, bringing out the subtle boundaries that define class, race and opportunity in contemporary America.

'Robin Campillo's outstanding AIDS activist drama melds the personal, the political and the erotic to heart-bursting effect.' – Variety

Dir: Robin Campillo, France, 2017, 140, Courtesy: Madman Entertainment

Taking out both the Grand Jury Prize and Queer Palm at Cannes last year, director Robin Campillo (Eastern Boys) draws on his own experience as an ACT UP member in Paris in the early '90s. Driven by a pulsating house music score by composer Arnaud Rebotini, this passionate, moving and urgent call to arms delves deep into the politics and commitment of this group of people who were literally fighting for their lives. At the centre of the film is a heartbreaking love story but the wonder and power of BPM is that it doesn't forget that amongst the fighting and the political debate, there is love, there is fucking and there is dancing.

'(A) heartfelt and cleverly constructed multicultural queer romance.'
— Sight & Sound

As a Pakistani Muslim lesbian living in Chicago, Zaynab (played by Fawzia Mirza) is out and proud — to everyone except her newly-moved-in mother. When artfully dodging her mother's attempts to find her a husband becomes too much, Zaynab copes by taking up Lucha-style wrestling. Her life climbs the turnbuckle when she meets Alma, a Latina bookstore owner, and the two fall head over heels into bed and relationship drama. With the spirit and spunk of '90's New Queer Cinema, Signature Move revitalises the classic lesbian rom-com by crossing cultures and body slamming its way into your heart.

THE CITY OF THE FUTURE

Australian Premiere

In Serra do Ramalho, Brazil, young teacher Milla finds herself pregnant by her colleague Gilmar. Gilmar is in a relationship with Igor, but Milla asserts that the baby will belong to all three of them. Despite some initial conflict between the three, and in defiance to their community's reaction, they form an unconventional but remarkably uncomplicated family.

Billed as the 'city of the future', Serra do Ramalho was constructed in the 1970s in order to rehouse thousands of citizens that had been forcefully relocated. The location forms an important backdrop for this elegant, gentle film which is full of hope for a new generation building their own family of the future.

For Leo, Alaska is a real drag. His sister has cancer, his job at a fish cannery is far from glamorous, and there's only one sad little gay bar within 100 miles. He survives by daydreaming about his future as a drag superstar and planning his escape. The drudgery is interrupted by the arrival of handsome wanderer Declan and by the discovery of his natural aptitude for boxing. When Leo is invited to compete in Miss Drag America, he finally sees his opportunity for escape. Essentially an expansion of her 2012 short of the same name (MQFF 2013), director Shaz Bennett has created a beautiful celebration of finding the humour and magic in the everyday. I DREAM IN ANOTHER LANGUAGE

Winning the World Cinema Audience Award at the 2017 Sundance Film Festival, I Dream in Another Language is a poetic reflection on life and long lost love. After the death of elderly village matriarch Jacinta, only two speakers of a Mexican indigenous language remain. Visiting linguistic researcher Martín is tasked with documenting this language to save it from extinction. Catch is the two remaining speakers of this dying language, Evaristo and Isauro, haven't spoken in over 50 years. To ensure the survival of their language and honour Jacinta's memory, the two men must revisit painful memories that tore them apart. In this rumination on love, director Ernesto Contreras offers us an utterly immersive cinematic experience on the importance of language and communication.

DESERT HEARTS

'A new 4k restoration brings new life to Deitch's gem.' – Indiewire

Groundbreaking at the time for its explicit depiction of attraction between women, Desert Hearts recently celebrated its 30th anniversary. Set in the 1950s and adapted by the book Desert of the Heart by Jane Rule, the film follows University professor Vivian Bell (Helen Shaver) as she uproots her life to move to Nevada while waiting for a divorce. At a local ranch Vivian meets free-spirited Cay (Patricia Charbonneau). She is simultaneously shocked and enthralled by Cay's brashness and openness about her sexuality. What follows is a sensual romance playing out against a vivid desert landscape. Desert Hearts will reach in and put a string of lights around even the most hardened heart. PRICK UP YOUR EARS

'A perfect storm of talent collides to create one of cinema's great doomed love dramas.' — The Times, UK

Thirty years after its first release, Stephen Frears' biopic of the life and untimely death of playwright Joe Orton finds its way back to the big screen. Gary Oldman is magnetic in one of his earliest film performances, exuding exactly the kind of charisma that would have had the men flocking to Orton's doorstep, while Alfred Molina is unforgettably prickly as his one-time creative partner and tortured lover, Kenneth Halliwell. Working from John Lahr's biography, Alan Bennett's screenplay keeps everything very British, but there's enough sauciness to evoke Orton's boundary pushing satires and to throw a still-contemporary light on the '60s.

QUEERCORE: HOW TO PUNK A REVOLUTION

'Queercore: How to Punk a Revolution is a feature-length snapshot into the music and magazines that gave voice to LGBTQ outsiders.' — NBC OUT

In the mid-1980s, Bruce LaBruce and GB Jones were searching for a scene that would accept both their punk aesthetic and their radical queer activism. When they couldn't find one, they invented a revolution called homocore (later known as queercore) and pretended it was already happening. Through zines, music, films, performance and activism, the idea grew into a real-life rebellious international movement. Director Yony Leyser (Desire Will Set You Free, MQFF 2016) has created a highly entertaining documentary for fans and the uninitiated. Interviews with Bruce LaBruce, John Waters, Beth Dittto, Kathleen Hanna, Peaches and more take you on a must-see journey from the onset of queercore to the next generation making it their own.

Audience award winner for Best Documentary at the 2017 Frameline Film Festival, this rousing film tells the story of a cigar-smoking, tequila-downing rebel. Chavela Vargas shook up Mexico's music industry by working against traditional gender codes and singing like a man. Wearing pants and ponchos and singing male rancheras, her performances were melancholic and cathartic. Documentarians Catherine Gund and Daresha Kyi use unseen footage of unguarded conversations with Vargas before her death in 2012, archival footage and recent interviews to chronicle her lifestyle, love affairs with Ava Gardner and Frida Kahlo, late-career collaborations with Pedro Almodóvar and heartbreak.

THE FABULOUS ALLAN CARR

Australian Premiere

'Garishly colorful, packed with stars, legendary parties, and a wide streak of pathos, it's a singular life story entertainingly recounted.' — Variety

Notorious for his debauchorous parties that were filled to the brim with drugs, sex and stars from both old and new Hollywood, Allan Carr ruled the social scene. The extravagant kaftan-wearing manager-turned-producer was a larger than life personality. A marketing genius, he built his bombastic reputation against the success of hit musical Grease and Broadway triumph La Cage Aux Folles. This all came to devastating crash after he produced the infamous 1989 Academy Awards. Prolific documentarian Jeffrey Schwarz, who brought us Vito (MQFF 2012), I am Divine (MQFF 2014) and Tab Hunter Confidential (MQFF 2016), details Carr's rise up the Hollywood ladder through out-and-out grit and fandom featuring interviews with those that knew him dearly, including Bruce Vilanch, Lorna Luft, Marlo Thomas and Steve Guttenberg.

MR GAY SYRIA

'A moving case for visibility in the face of hatred and violence.' — Screen Daily

A timely documentary that explores the plight of two Syrian gay refugees involved in the underground pageant Mr Gay Syria. Whilst living in exile, young barber Husein struggles with his double life. With a wife and baby daughter in the country and his gay life in the city of Istanbul, he finds acceptance and his identity by competing in the pageant. Given asylum in Berlin, refugee Mahmoud organises Mr Gay Syria to offer the winner a chance to travel to Mr Gay World, trying to bring international attention to the life-threatening situations faced by LGBTIQ Syrians. Turkish filmmaker Ayse Toprak's inspiring documentary shows a side of the refugee crisis rarely portrayed in cinemas, offering visibility as a vital weapon in the face of oppression, and a powerful look at those risking it all to be themselves.

This compelling documentary offers an intimate insight into a Pakistani immigrant exploring his sexuality while ruminating on his complex relationship with his father. Director Arshad Khan bravely puts himself front and centre as he documents his family's move from Pakistan to Toronto. Although quite liberal in their attitudes back home, Khan's parents go through a conservative conversion of sorts when they migrate to Canada, which clashes with Khan's own personal awakening. Using an inventive blend of animation, home movies and clips from old Bollywood movies, Khan has crafted a powerful look at the toll of migration and a distinctive portrait of liberation and acceptance.

'A heartening celebration of progress and a cautionary reminder of all the broken lives and lonely hearts trampled along the way.' — Screen Daily

Created from a deep dive into the BFI National Archive, this engrossing essay film charts a century of incredible change in British LGBTIQ life. Film, television, documentary and newsreel footage explore the relationships, desires, fears and expressions of gay men and women from 1919 to the current day. Queerama features landmark moments from films such as Victim, The Killing of Sister George, Orlando, Beautiful Thing and Young Soul Rebels and is coupled with a dynamic soundtrack that includes John Grant, Goldfrapp and Hercules & Love Affair. Director Daisy Asquith traverses persecution, injustice, forbidden encounters, sexual liberation and pride to create an intimate and unflinching portrait of what it was to be British and queer in the 20th Century.

'(The) gossipy documentary Mansfield 66/67 is a rip-roaring good ride.' — Vanity Fair

If you like your queer mondo kitsch with a touch of the satanic, this uproarious look at the surely-this-can't-be-true life story of the final years of Hollywood starlet Jayne Mansfield won't just tickle your fancy, it'll sacrifice it on the altar of interpretive dance. She was the 'king-sized' Marilyn Monroe, he was the founder of the Church of Satan (with a flair for the preposterous); their affair was ripped from the pages of Hollywood Babylon – and Kenneth Anger is on hand to confirm it. Featuring hilarious and insightful interviews with John Waters, Peaches Christ and Tippi Hedren, Mansfield 66/67 is a doco so drenched in camp that you may need to come up for air half way through.

CINEMANIACS PRESENT "ALL OF THEM WITCHES": THE DEVIL IN 60S & 70S CINEMA

Jayne Mansfield wasn't the only one lured by the Devil's charms, all of Hollywood seemed to be under his spell during the 1960s and '70s. Hosted by Hande Noyan, this panel featuring film historians Lee Gambin, Emma Westwood and Sally Christie, will take you on a journey through Satan's cinematic incarnations. From celebrated classics, Rosemary's Baby and The Exorcist to John Travolta's film debut and even hardcore porn, the Devil's clutches were inescapable. This sidebar event to MQFF's special screening of Mansfield 66/67 is a definite must see for all fans of cult cinema!

MQFF GIVES BACK

EMPOWERING QUEER FILMMAKERS THROUGH INNOVATIVE WORKSHOPS & FESTIVAL PRIZES

QUEER FILMMAKING WORKSHOP

The Queer Filmmaking Workshop provides an opportunity to amplify the voices of the LGBTIQ+ community by empowering real people to share their stories. Presented with The University of Melbourne's Victorian College of the Arts (VCA), this workshop will provide the opportunity to learn fundamental filmmaking techniques.

The workshop is designed for budding filmmakers. This will be a very practical and collaborative workshop for a small group of people to write, direct, shoot and edit a two-minute film together.

Workshop 10.00am to 4.00pm

- Write a short script
- Draw storyboards
- Shoot the film
- Edit the film

Workshop coordinator, Kate Lefoe is a filmmaker and recent graduate from the VCA with a Masters of Film and Television (Narrative). Kate's short films include Under Pressure (MQFF 2011), Plunge (MQFF 2015) and co-directing a documentary with David Muir It's Who We Are (MQFF 2014).

Lauren Anderson is a freelance filmmaker with a Masters of Narrative Direction and a Masters of Screenwriting from the Victorian College of the Arts, and was the winner of the 2016 Australian Writers Guild New Writers' Script Competition, TV and Web series category. Lauren's short films include Vigilant! Healthy! Wholesome! (MQFF 2011) and Love & Other Red Spot Specials (MQFF 2010, Best Australian Short Queer Film).

Workshop:

$30 full / $20 concession & MQFF members.

Note: Limited capacity. Book early to avoid disappointment.
